THE FFA CREED

The FFA Creed was written by E. M. Tiffany. It was officially adopted by the third National FFA Convention. Later it was revised by the 38th National Convention in 1965 to take into account the developing interest in agribusiness careers among FFA members.

The Creed states some of the basic principles in which the FFA members believe.

I Believe in the Future of Farming, with a faith born not of words but of deeds - achievements won by the present and past generations of agriculturalists; in the promise of better days through better ways, even as the better things we now enjoy have come to us from the struggles of former years.

I Believe That to Live and Work on a good farm or to be engaged in other agricultural pursuit, is pleasant as well as challenging; for I know the joys and discomforts of agricultural life and hold an inborn fondness for those associations which, even in hours of discouragement, I can not deny.

I Believe in Leadership form Ourselves and respect from others. I believe in my own ability to work efficiently and think clearly, with such knowledge and skill as I can secure, and in the ability of progressive agriculturists to serve our own and the public interest in producing and marketing the product of our toil.

I Believe in Less Dependence on begging and more power in bargaining; in the life abundant and enough honest wealth to help make it so - for others as well as myself; in less need for charity and more of it when needed; in being happy myself and playing square with those whose happiness depends upon me.

I Believe That Rural America Can and Will hold true to the best traditions of our national life and that I can exert an influence in my home and community which will stand solid for my part in that inspiring task.

THE COLORS

The colors of the FFA are not only striking in appearance but they have special meaning. NATIONAL BLUE, reminds us that FFA is a national organization. CORN GOLD reminds us that is a native American crop grown in every state. These colors should appear in connection with all meetings, and in the equipment and paraphenalia used.

THE MOTTO

Our motto consists of only twelve words reflecting the philosophy and spirit of our organization. The FFA Motto is:

LEARNING TO DO

DOING TO LEARN

EARNING TO LIVE

LIVING TO SERVE
